Need a speaker for my class

We have two broad categories for class presentations. The first is our “Don't Cancel Class” program. This program was developed to encourage faculty to invite us to their class when they might be away at a conference or have some other type of class conflict. The other category of class presentation is when a faculty member invites us to guest lecture as a planned part of the course curriculum. Both of these invitations are welcome. We can incorporate issues of interpersonal violence and prevention into any curriculum.

We are happy to present most of our programs during the time of your class. If you are interested in having a guest lecturer, please contact our Program Coordinator, Julie Millisky, at julie.millisky@rutgers.edu.
